FARMERS INSTITUTE TO HOLD MEETING TODAY

The Potter County Farmers' Institute will hold its first regular meeting since organization today from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. at the United States Experiment farm, two miles east of Amarillo. Interest in advance of the meeting has been marked and a roving attendance is expected today.

Statement was made last night by Secretary Hazard that provision in the way of sheds had been made at the experiment farm, which will provide adequate shelter for all in attendance in case of rain. All who attend are expected to bring basket lunches, and this feature, it is believed, will lend added pleasure to the meeting.

Prof. T. S. Minter of the West Texas Normal at Canyon will be present to address the institute and John F. Ross, in charge of the experiment farm, will give practical demonstrations of the results of scientific experimentation, with instructive discussion.

Weather favoring, it is expected that members of other Panhandle county institutions will be present, as matters of mutual importance will be considered.

The question of naming delegates to the State Institute at College Station, July 31 to August 1, will arise and some decision may be reached. If the membership list is increased, as expected, the Potter County Institute will be entitled to five delegates. To these delegates, free transportation will be furnished by the railroads, under an amendment to the anti-pass law. This amendment will not allow county district officers who are members of the institute to this free transportation privilege, however, as such officers are barred by the existing law.

The Potter County Institute now includes approximately ninety members in addition to the original list, which appeared in the News, the following new members have affiliated with the institute:

Mrs. Charles Danmiller, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McCartney, David Danmiller, Walter Danmiller, Rose Danmiller, Lily Danmiller, Josie McCartney, Fred Sumner, R. M. Rutor, J. A. Spelling, R. C. SAYS PIPE LINE FROM PETROLIA WOULD PAY

S. J. Slade returned yesterday from Petrolia where he has been supervising the sinking of three new wells on his holdings in the oil and gas field.

"One well is down 800 feet, another 500 and still another has just been started," said Mr. Slade. "Some delay has been encountered by the slipping of casing, but as soon as it is fished out, the work will continue. There is reassuring promise of a large strike. The Petrolia field is becoming recognized as one of the most important and productive in the southwest, and development is still only fairly begun."

Mr. Slade together with other Amarillo citizens is interested in the holdings of the Amarillo Oil & Gas Company. This company owns the greatest gas well in the field to date.

"It is estimated that we have a daily capacity of 70,000,000 feet," said Mr. Slade, "and this is half as much as is being taken from the field daily. The experience of Wichita Falls and other points which use gas for fuel shows that Amarillo and the Panhandle towns could save the cost of a pipe line to gas fields within two years time. The distance to Petrolia is 226 miles and the estimated cost of piping is $10,000 a mile. The sum seems colossal, but when the reduced price of fuel for home and factory purposes is considered, it may readily be seen that the Panhandle people would profit largely from connection with the gas fields. The larger cities and towns along the Denver could well afford to interest themselves in the matter and are sleeping on their rights by not so doing."

"We are now considering a gasoline proposition, test showing that a goodly per centage of that valuable product is in evidence in our well at Petrolia. Operations continue steadily in the field and along a liberal scale."

PANHANDLE ROADS ARE PRAISED BY TRAVELER

Prof. Wesley Peacock, head of the Peacock Military Institute of San Antonio reached Amarillo yesterday afternoon from Colorado, where he has been for several weeks, and will remain here for several days.

Prof. Peacock came overland, his speedometer recording a tour of approximately 2,000 miles since leaving San Antonio three weeks ago.

"The scenery in Colorado is superb," he said last night, "and autoing was a pleasant and easy matter with us. The Colorado road ways are kept in splendid condition, but I want to say that members of my party, were constantly referring to the stretch of natural highway between Amarillo and Claude. I am free to state that we encountered no roads which can compare to this leading from Amarillo south. It is the finest which I have ever encountered, and should be more liberally advertised to the world. The Panhandle of Texas possesses a combination of climate and roads that should be capitalized. It is an asset of incalculable value."

"Colorado Springs is keenly interested in the highway movement inaugurated by the Panhandle counties, and many questions were asked of me, when it was learned that I had driven over a greater part of the proposed route. The organization recently perfected should result in concerted effort, and the building and maintaining of an auto highway second to none in the west. The natural roads need but little attention to make them perfect, and within a comparatively short time after completion a tide of tourists will turn in this direction."

"I like Amarillo. This city and section have a great future ahead, and energy and vision will accomplish marvelous development here within the next few years."
